

Exhibit A

We informally asked our Town & Gown Board of Directors and Past Presidents to let us know if they, their partner, or children were Marshall graduates.

Chris Gregg- Our connection to Marshall: My husband received his BA and MBA at the Marshall School of Business. We also established a T&G Scholarship with Marshall School and have provided support for their MBV Program, too. We just received the name of our Marshall Scholar last month.

Janyce Teasley - Count me in!

Ann Palmer - My husband, Tim, was a Marshall graduate '69. (My son graduated with BA/MA from the Leventhal School of Accounting)

Carol Wright - My husband, Brad Wright, Graduated from the USC Business School in 1977. His grandmother endowed a scholarship with T&G in the late 70's, early 80's. The Arthur and Merle Wright Scholarship.

Debbie Wong - Here is my information: Both of my boys graduated from the Marshall School of Business and one of them is still working at Bank of America, which was his first job after college. 15 years later, he worked his way up to his current position of Senior Vice President Market Executive at Bank of America Merrill Lynch.

Helaine Lopes - Steve MBA, son Matt Marshall undergrad, daughter Jen Marshall graduate in Social Entrepreneurship, and son-in-law John Marshall undergrad

Laurie Tiedemann - I graduated with an MBT (Master of Business Taxation) from the USC School of Business in the 80's, before it was named the Marshall School of Business in 1997. I was a CPA and went back to school to round out the tax side. Don't think of me as a boring bean counter though – I feel the degree helped me secure the position as Wayne Gretzky's business manager and head of his family office when he was traded to the Los Angeles Kings in 1988 – a position I held for 20+ years!

Linda Swick - Hi Patti and Colleen,
I was in the Marshall School of Business and my son, Kevin Swick '14 was a graduate of Marshall. He was one of the founders of the Marshall Investing Group and continues to mentor and judge their competitions.

Alli Solum - Hi – I was a graduate of the Business School (School of Commerce then) and then worked as a TA for Dr. William Himstreet while working on my MA in Business Education. One of my students was Marv Marinovich, a popular football player. I also worked for Dr. Robert Dockson during my sophomore and junior years. He became a very good friend.

Kathie Johnson - I graduated with a BS and MBA from Marshall.

Marilyn Kezirian - I was graduated from Marshall with a BS in Marketing in 1960. I'll also brag a bit. I was named the Outstanding 1960 Marketing Graduate from USC by the American Marketing Association. The winners from other Universities and I were honored at a banquet and presented with monogrammed leather attaché cases. I was the only woman of the 1960 winners.

Kathleen Campos - Thank you for your email. My Husband Bob Campos graduated from Marshall in 1991 in Marketing. I am the History/International Relations major. Go figure!
Kathleen

Sara Pfirrmann

My husband, Phil, received both his BS (1976) and MBA (1977) from Marshall - then called USC School of Business.

Both our sons, Henry and Charles, graduated from Marshall.

Henry - graduated in 2010 in Finance and double majored in Political Science. He was a Renaissance Scholar with distinction. He is currently doing industrial real estate development in Dallas.

Charles - graduated in 2013 with a double major in Business Administration and Accounting and then in 2014 got his Masters of Business Taxation from Leventhal. He is a CPA in Corporate Tax with Ernst and Young.

Both were Town and Gown scholars.

Charles currently sits on the Young Alumni Board for Leventhal.

Phil managed the major fundraiser for Leventhal for 6 years and was the representative for Leventhal on the Board of Governors for three years.

Patti Jamgotchian - My husband and two daughters all graduated from USC Marshall/Business. Both daughters started their career jobs after college through USC connections. One works at Visa and the other at Disney and now at Google.

Colleen Stroyke -I graduated in 1986 with a Business degree, emphasis - Marketing. My husband earned his Business degree, emphasis Entrepreneur in '83. Today our daughter is a senior in Marshall.

Joyce Fadil – Son, Alexander Fadil was a Marshall Graduate and is the current President of the Marshall Alumni Association, Los Angeles Chapter

Barbara Orechoff - Our family connection to Marshall is my son Alex, he graduated with his undergraduate degree in Business (he was also a Town and Gown Scholar) then went onto earning his MBA from the London School of Business and is now working for an American consulting firm in the United Arab Emirates traveling all over the middle east. Quite an adventure for a young man. Marshall opened many doors for him!
